Important Queries and Replies

What is the first duty of a man of family?

To secure the integrity of his home and make a sure provision for those dependent upon him.

IN WHAT WAY CAN THIS BE DONE?

In no other way can this be so securely and effectually done, and the home be preserved in all its sweetness and beauty, as by acquiring a Policy in «The Standard Life.»

Countless families and homes are wrecked and made desolate yearly and thousands of children thrown into the great tide of poverty and vagrancy all through the careless improvision and culpable neglect of the bread-winner.

Remember in time, that a policy in «The Standard Life» is a positive safe-guard against the frowns of fortune, a sure protection for old age, the best and safest investment, a precious, in fact the only, infallible provision for the loved ones under your sacred care.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Representatives were convoked on Tuesday, but no quorumed.

Dr. Juan Gil, one of the five or six nationalist legislators who supported the presidential candidature of Sr. Batlle contrary to the views of the enormous majority of the party, and who now enters the Senate as substitute for Sr. E. A. Diaz, has published a political letter or manifesto of portentous length, dealing directly with the Bill creating additional military forces, and indirectly with nearly all the political events and contentions of the last ten or twelve months. Dr. Gil apparently approves of the Government being granted any quantity of military force that it may ask for, and incidentally the chief object of his manifesto seems to be to rake up old sores and almost forgotten contentions over consummated events which have faded into past history. So obvious was this that the Siglo, publicly states that, after having read his document, it declined to publish it in its columns, as not wishing to be a party to an inopportune revival of ill-feeling. We think most people will agree with the Siglo, and, judging from this commencement, Dr. Gil will not prove a factor of harmony and good-will in the upper Chamber.

Referring again to the Bill concerning recusación of Judges, yesterday's Siglo says that, though it regrets the amendment of the Senate extending the number of co-judges, it thinks it of more importance that the Bill should be passed promptly than that time should be lost by a conflict between the two Chambers over details. We cannot agree with this view, for we think it better that the Bill should be delayed a little, than that it should be passed in a watered form which would greatly weaken the merit and efficacy of the reform. A paragraph elsewhere is another proof of how necessary that reform is.

The threat against the Insurance Companies is a prominent topic in business circles, and our two articles thereon have brought us many congratulations, but we find but little reference to the matter in our native contemporaries. The Diario Nuevo, however, makes some remarks in which, while approving the idea of the Government, it thinks that in its present form the step betrays a distinct hostility towards foreign Insurance Companies which is not the real intention. The guarantee demanded, it points out, is certainly excessive in propertion to the business done by the majority of the Companies, and might advantageously be reduced to $50,000 in bonds or real estate, and it should be made extensive to all Companies, without reference to nationality. This latter is obviously just, but we doubt if it would fall in with the peculiar protectionist views of the Government. A statement has found currency that the Finance Minister Dr. Martinez is trying to get the proposal rushed through Committee and the Chambers, but his special interest in doing so remains to be explained.

THE AFFAIR OF THE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Telegrams appeared from Buenos Aires yesterday morning announcing that the Argentine Supreme Court of Justice had confirmed the decision of the lower Court (the Chamber of Appeal) setting aside that of the Commercial Judge Dr. Viale enforcing against the branch of the New York Life Insurance Company in Buenos Aires the pretended declaration of bankruptcy against the Company issued by the Commercial Judge Dr. Satáchaga, of Montevideo, in pursuance of the claim of Casimiro Castro. In plain words this means that the attempt of Castro against the funds and properties of the Company in Buenos Aires is definitely and finally checkmated, and the branch there need fear no further molestation from him. This was only to be expected. Apart from the preposterous nature of the claim, it was obvious to common sense and common justice, that a Commercial Judge in Montevideo had no authority to declare the bankruptcy of an international Company with headquarters in New York and branches in numerous cities throughout the world.

We may take this opportunity of mentioning that we have just received from Buenos Aires several copies of Dr. Luis M. Drago's notable study of the New York affair in its international aspect, part of which was translated in our issue of the 14th instant. The decision of the Argentine Supreme Court has confirmed the view taken by Dr. Drago, who also held that the order of bankruptcy was void as regarded Buenos Aires. We shall be happy to place these copies at the disposal of any our readers interested in the affair.

We see by yesterday's Prensa that in the prosecution for alleged libel which Casimiro Castro is bringing against that paper (for having quoted the remarks of a Buenos Aires paper on his claim) the said Castro «is following exactly the same procedures of which he availed himself to obtain the award which condemned the Insurance Companies to pay over a million dollars [in effect $250,000] because they had impeded that good gentleman from carrying out certain little negotiations which he had in view [videlicet, speculative insurances on the lives of third parties.] He has just challenged (recusado) under one pretext or another, all the members of the Tribunal of the 1st Turn and, as the case has passed to the Tribunal of the 2nd Turn, it is asserted that he already has prepared a similar recusación against all the Judges of that Tribunal also. It thus follows that in this country there are no Judges to suit Castro, and it will be necessary to sanction a special Law according him the faculty of himself acting as Judge in his own cases, and by this means he may be satisfied.»

Our own case—for, as our readers know, we also are being prosecuted by Castro and on the same pretext—is following in the heels of that of the Prensa, but is not yet quite so far advanced. Our defence, like that of the Prensa, is in the very competent hands of Dr. A. Rodriguez Larreta, who has generously undertaken it in public interests, and we are under no apprehensions as to the result once it comes before an upright Judge.

Radium in Commerce.

The Welsh-Loftus Uranium and Rare Metals Company, recently formed at Buffalo, U. S. A., which owns uranium ore beds at Utah, proposes to produce radium as a commercial article. A testing plant is, says an American correspondent of «Commercial Intelligence,» soon to be erected at or near Buffalo with a capacity to reduce two tons of ore daily. A hundred pounds of uranium oxide would be turned out in the course of one day, as well as 10,000 grammes of crude radium-barium compound of 10 unit activity, due to the radium, and 100 pounds of other metallic residues, said to contain another radiant metal, polonium. The crude radium-barium product will be converted into a chloride salt, and the process of eliminating the barium-chloride begun. When the 10,000 grammes have been reduced to 100 grammes, the compound will have an activity of 1,000 units. When still further concentrated to 10 grammes of 1,000 units activity, it would be unsafe for one to carry it except in a lead case. A final concentration to one gramme of 100,000 units activity will provide a compound 90 per cent. barium and 10 per cent. radium chloride. Such a compound placed in a little aluminium shell and fitted into a suitable lead tube will provide the surgeon with a portable instrument which will serve the functions of X-ray generating apparatus and fixtures at no cost of operation, maintenance, renewal, or repair.

Cheap Music.

London, Sept. 26.

With some show of circumstance a report was published yesterday to the effect that a well-known firm of publishers of popular music propose to check piracy by selling favourite songs at sixpence each when the first run at a higher price begins to wane. So far as comic songs, music hall ditties, and the like are concerned, the reduction of price, after the first flush of popularity, is scarcely in the nature of a new departure. Nor are these the songs to which the pirate looks for profit in his peculiar line of peddling. He flies at higher game by purloining songs whereon the publisher pays royalty to the composer, and where he has paid vocalists of standing for the singing.

On calling at some of the best-known music publishing houses yesterday, a press representative learnt that they have no intention of making any change in their prices. Their class of business does not appeal directly to the million. How, indeed, could they be expected to sell for sixpence songs for which they can get more than a shilling, and still be within the face price as it appears when the ornamental and good-looking score is on the piano. It may well be doubted whether the class of people who buy songs such as «The School Girl» would not be rather repelled than attracted by «Price 6d.» appearing in the corner. And where in such case would Mr. Leslie Stuart's royalty be derived from? Even if these considerations could be overcome, the first class publisher would be still unable to outstrip the pirate who pays no royalty, and runs but little risk. No general change could, at any rate, be made without consulting the composers.

What is really done in the way of cheapening songs by recognised composers after the full demand has toned down is to republish noted compositions in a collected form at a price of from one shilling upwards. And when it is considered that firms of high standing may take the risk and incur the expense of publishing a hundred songs that do not rise above the average for one that becomes famous, it is not perhaps surprising to learn that for the present at least no change is contemplated in their way of doing business.

Wedding in Buenos Aires.

Before a large concourse of their friends the wedding of Mr. Edward O. Morgan of Quilmes and Miss Celina Lauth, daughter of Mr. John P. Lauth, of Buenos Aires, was celebrated on Monday evening in St. John's Anglican Church. The decorations of the church were most artistic. The pillars were ornamented with a profusion of flowers and palms, while the altar, railings, pulpit and centre pews had been beautifully decorated with white flowers prettily entwined with maiden-hair fern. Shortly before 9 30 the organ pealed forth the processional hymn «A threefold cord is not quickly broken» which was sung while the bride, escorted by her father and followed by her bridesmaids, slowly walked up the centre aisle, looking very charming and attired in a costume of satin, covered with white silk, flowered grenadine, and carrying a shower bouquet of white flowers. Her bridesmaids were the Misses Sara Morgan, Sara Justo, Sixta Justo and Delia Umerez, who were frocked alike in silk gauze with white satin trimmings; they wore large white picture hats and carried large bouquets of mixed flowers. The bridegroom was supported by Mr. George Ritchie, as best man, and Messrs. W. Morgan, J. A. Areco and E. Pitre as groomsmen. The marriage ceremony was read by Canon Stevenson of Quilmes. After the register had been duly signed, the newly-wedded couple left the Church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March executed on the organ by Mr. W. H. Pott of Quilmes. A large number of those who witnessed the marriage ceremony afterwards congregated in the large reception hall of the Phœnix Hotel, where the health and happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan were enthusiastically drunk. The honeymoon will be spent in Tandil.—B. A. Standard.

British Hospital Sofa Fund.

Carrying out the intention we announced some weeks ago, on the return here of the U. S. squadron we wrote to the Commander Rear-Admiral Lamberton soliciting his permission for the circulation on the vessels of the squadron of subscription lists on behalf of the British Hospital Sofa Fund. To that request we have received the following reply, the courtesy and kind feeling of which will, we are sure, be much appreciated by our readers here: —

To the Editor.
THE MONTEVIDEO TIMES:
Sir:

I take pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 24th inst., enclosing the subscription lists for the British Hospital Sofa Fund. The lists have been forwarded to the Commanding Officers of the several vessels constituting this squadron, with a letter of transmittal of which the enclosed is a copy.

I am sure that the officers and men of the squadron will thankfully avail themselves of this opportunity to show their appreciation of the kindness and hospitality which has at all times been proffered them by this institution.

I am, Sir,
Very respectfully
B. P. Lamberton.
Rear Admiral U. S. N.
Commander-in-Chief.

U.S.F.S. Newark,
Montevideo, Oct. 24, 1903.

(Copy.)
To the Commanding Officer
U. S. S. ——.
Sir:

The enclosed subscription list for a «Sofa Fund» for the British Hospital is forwarded to you by request of the Editor of THE MONTEVIDEO TIMES.

In transmitting this list the Commander-in-Chief deems it suitable to remind the officers and men of the squadron that American officers and seamen have frequently in the past availed themselves of the privileges of this institution, where they have invariably been hospitably received and attended with care and the best of medical treatment.

Very respectfully,
B. P. Lamberton,
Rear Admiral, U. S. N.,
Commander-in-Chief.

SUNDRIES.

— WEATHER. — Unsettled and rather threatening, with a high temperature. Similar conditions prevail in the interior and rain is reported from the north.

—ENGLISH CLUB. — The Annual General Meeting of members convoked for Tuesday evening could not be held for want of a quorum, little more than half the necessary number attending. This is rather a rare occurrence with this Club, though we may point out that the Rules are badly framed, exacting an unnaturally high quorum both for Ordinary and Extraordinary Meetings. This is not merely an error, but a positive offence to the members for the members of a Club or Society have no clearer or more sacred right than that of meeting together to discuss the business of their institution, and Rules which work so as to obstruct this are both detrimental and unjust.—A second convocation for the Meeting has been issued for the evening of Tuesday, November 5, when the meeting will be held with the number present.

— MAILS.—The R. M. S. «Nile,» bringing London dates to the 8th or 9th instant, is expected on Saturday, and will sail homeward bound on Nov. 6.

—VICTORIA HALL. — The well-known actor Montefusco has discovered the Victoria Hall, and will perform there with his popular comic opera Company this evening, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. This evening will be given the popular «Saltimbanchi,» which he gives in very amusing fashion. Families may attend without misgiving. Popular prices.

—POLITEAMA.—The Japs announce their last performances for to-day and tomorrow. On Sunday a Spanish Dramatic Company will make its appearance with a repertory of venerable and blood curdling milodramas.

—CIBILS THEATRE. — The programme for this evening includes «El Enemigo» and a farce.

—CASINO.—New comers are Mlle. Saint Rome, French singer, and Mr. Brown, a colored individual who calls himself the «American Bandmaster.» A very successful item is a burlesque of the wrestling matches, by the Narow Brothers, which many find much more entertaining than the original thing.

—AMBASSADOR.—Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, a distinguished diplomat and author, for many years British Minister to Persia, has been named Ambassador to the United States.

—BRAKE FOR SHIPS.—When the Camperdown rammed the Victoria, and Admiral Tryon and many men lost their lives, «Why can't someone invent a brake for ships?» was the question often heard. A brake has now, we hear, been invented, and appears to be, like other great inventions, a very simple thing. The new brake, which is like a rudder in construction and form of attachment, is fitted to either side of a ship, and extends from the extreme load line down to the bilge keel. When not in use it fits close to the ship's sides. When it is required to save a collision, or for landing purposes, certain catches are released, the «gate» (as the huge structure hinged vertically to the vessel is termed) is partially opened by means of bevel gear, and the pressure of the water «does the rest.» The brake can be controlled either from the bridge or the engine-room.

—VERY OLD HORSES.—What is the «record» age of a horse? The Field says that a representative lately saw an animal twenty-eight years old running near leader in a provincial coach. It was not once touched with the whip. A correspondent, Vice-Admiral Woolcombe, caps this, however, with an account of a horse of his brother's which does light work, including a seven miles out and seven miles back trip a week in a very hill country, at the age of thirty-four or thirty five. He «makes nothing of his work,» and shows a «most friendly disposition.» This case will clearly take some beating.

—A SARDINE FAMINE.—Lovers of the succulent sardine will regret to learn that the harvest of the sea has failed entirely of late so far as that fish is concerned. One firm in London is accustomed to receive consignments of the value of several thousands of pounds week by week from one house alone: but latterly (according to the City Press) not a single tin has arrived, for the simple reason that the catches have been nil. Meanwhile, of course, the sardine's first cousin the pilchard is experiencing what may be termed a «rough time.»

— A REMARKABLE STEAMSHIP. — In order to meet the special requirements of Messrs. Muller and Co., of Rotterdam, who carry on a large trade in ore, there has been launched from the yard of Messrs. Doxford and Sons, Limited, a remarkable steamship named the «Graugesberg.» This vessel will carry 10,300 tons, and can be discharged in thirty hours. The method adopted has been to build the vessel with no 'tween decks, but twelve holds, each divided into two compartments. These compartments can all be worked at the same time through the medium of twenty-four

Such a curious arrangement is quite a novelty, and the vessel presents a unique appearance, with her great beam of 62ft. to a length of only 440ft. LONDON NOTES

TUESDAY, SEPT. 29.

Lord Milner arrived at Charing Cross from Carlsbad shortly after five o'clock yesterday. He was met by Sir Clinton Dawkins, and on leaving the station made a brief call at the Prime Minister's official residence.

The Unionist Free Food League has passed a resolution welcoming Mr. Balfour's declaration that Protective taxation on imported food is not at present within the limits of practical politics, as an announcement that it forms no part of the fiscal policy of his Majesty's Government. The League has not yet decided on its course of action pending the Prime Minister's coming speech.

Sir John Gorst, speaking last night at Stockport, where he distributed prizes to the students of the technical school, said we heard a great deal now about foreign competition, but his advice was—do not be led astray by politicians who said the political nostrum was the thing. They recommended for the time being a tariff, or a tax, or something or other. All this was an excellent thing for party warfare, or for an election. He pointed to Switzerland as our example. Our object must be to breed a healthy and intelligent race of Britons. Then we need not fear all the hostile tariffs in the world.

Passive Resistance news shows the strong stand which has been made by some defendants when called upon to answer summonses for non payment of the education rate against entering the «dock» allocated to criminals in police-courts. The refusal to do so of a Poole Borough magistrate, himself a Resister, led to a scene at the Branksome Petty Sessions; and the removal, at his own request, of a Chester J. P. from the Commission of the Peace, in consequence of his objection to prosecutions under the Act, is also noted.

Alderman Sir John Knill and Mr. Alfred James Reynolds were yesterday publicly admitted to office as Sheriffs of the City of London, in succession to Alderman Sir G. Wyatt Truscott and Sir Thomas Brooke-Hitching. A novel feature of the function, which is otherwise well known to Londoners, was a reception held after the breakfast by Lady Knill and Mrs. Reynolds, the wives of the Sheriffs.

An Army Order was issued yesterday which forbids soldiers in uniform to loiter without lawful purpose in the parks or public thoroughfares in London after dark. Special orders have been issued to the military police.

Sad particulars of a youth's depravity and folly were given to the magistrate at Westminster Police-court yesterday, when Henry Bagster was charged with disorderly conduct at Victoria Railway Station. He has long been known as an inveterate nuisance in the neighbourhood, and has been frequently charged. When he comes of age in April next he will inherit property worth several thousands of pounds. He was ordered to be imprisoned for six months in default of finding sureties.

A young Italian was brought up at Clerkenwell Police-court yesterday charge with murdering a compatriot by shooting him at Bank Hill, Clerkenwell; and also with the attempted murder of another man. The wounding of the latter are through a dispute about a girl; but the dead man, it was said, was merely passing by when he was killed.

Ella Lawrence, with an address in Woburn-place, Russell-square, was summoned at Bow-street Police-court yesterday for publishing a libel on Colonel Algernon Campbell Foley, of the Royal Engineers. The complainant, who admitted acquaintance with the defendant six years ago, said the post card in question was one of many others of similar character sent by her to different quarters. The lady, who reserved her defence, was committed for trial, but allowed out on her own recognisances.

In the Southern Charity Football Cup Competition yesterday Millwall defeated Tottenham Hotspur by 3 goals to 1. In the Birmingham Charity Cup Stoke beat Burslem Port Vale, Wolverhampton Wanderers defeated West. Bromwich Albion, and Small Heath drew with Aston Villa. In the Western League, Southampton beat Brentford by 3 goals to nil.

SHORT STORY

Diamond Trumps.

There were some very nice people in the neighbourhood, and we went out a good deal in a quiet way to dinners, tennis parties, and so on. It was a very pleasant life for me. I enjoyed driving with my husband in fine weather, I did a a good deal of pleasant boating, I cycled — I led an ideal country life. So it was really no foolish longing for town that made me persuade my husband to sell his practice and move to London. I knew that he was skiful, I was constantly told that he was a favourite with his patients, and I was desperately unwilling that he should spend his whole life toiling day and night for quite inadequate pay. He felt, himself, the desirability of making a move, and was not hard to persuade. To make a long story short we sold the country practice for a year's purchase, packed up our household goods, and moved to a wealthy and growing suburb of London. No doubt, it was dreadfully risky to leave a safe thing for something quite uncertain. But can you attain to any great success in this word unless you run a certain amount of risk? I am of deceided opinion that you cannot, useless you have plenty of capital at your back! We had not plenty of capital. We had £600 invested, and the sale of our practice brought £600 more, so that we set up house in London with £1,200 and possible patients between us and the workhouse. The house we took was in a particularly good position in a good neighbourhood, just at a corner where two roads crossed and where endless building was in progress. We moved into it on the 1st of October, the plate was duly affixed to the door, and we settled down to wait with what patience we might.

And, oh! what a dreary wait it was. Days, weeks, months passed, and never a pull at the bell! Or, if it did ring, what bitter disappointment! It was the electric light man, the gasmetre man, the rate-collector — anything objectionable you like—but never a patient. We had told ourselves that the waiting would be anxious and weary! My husband up till then had led a very busy, active life, and the enforced idleness was terribly irksome to him. He declared he hated town life; but it was the absence of employment he hated, and he would have hated that even more in the country.

After a time things were a little better. Patients began to appear, very desirable patients, too — people in a good position, well able to pay good fees. And they recommended my husband to other people, and so the practice grew by degrees.

But our money did not go by degrees, unfortunately. It disappeared, as money will, with the most alarming rapidity, and at the end of two years we found ourselves with only £200 in the world. There was some money owing to us, certainly, and, thank goodness, we did not owe a halfpenny. But could we hold on—that was the burning question! We felt we must not spend our uttermost farthing, only to be beaten after all. We must call a halt while yet there were a few pounds left wherewith to make a fresh start elsewhere. What a wretched start it would be! We should have to separate. My husband would be forced to take an assistantship—I should have to look out for a situation as housekeeper or companion to some deadly dull old lady. It was truly a horrid prospect. Was there anything in the wide world either of us could do to save the situation?

I stood, then, with the brooch in my hand, wondering if I could by any means get hold of the reward that was fairly mine. Of course, I knew that the sum of £10 in itself would do little towards altering our fate one way or the other. But it would mean a new coat to my husband, a new hat, new gloves. All these he badly needed, and it is so fatal for a professional man to be shabbily dressed. The little windfall would encourage him, and, if we would only hold on for another month or so, who knew what wonderful piece of luck might come our way!

What could I do? I could get hold of some child, send her to Abercorn Gardens with a tale to the effect that she had found the brooch, pay her a couple of shillings, and make her hand over the reward to me. No, that would not do. I had not sunk so low as to put a lie into someone else's mouth. But why should I not go myself? Why should I not dress very plainly, like a maid-servant, for instance, and go and claim the reward in person? Perhaps, I should not have to see the owner at all, and in any case, she was certain not to know me. It would not be at all difficult, and, surely, there was no harm in it. Yes, I would do it, I would do it at once. Come what might, I must have that money!

Planning thus, I had walked unconsciously in the direction of home, entirely occupied with my sheme to the exclusion of all else. The shopping was forgotten absolutely. No fish would be forthcoming for dinner that night — cod, or haddock, or what you like! It was about one o'clock when I reached home, so I decided that nothing could be done till after lunch. I said nothing to my husband of the morning's experience, nor of what I meant to do. If I had he never would have allowed me to carry my plan into execution, and I felt I must go on now at all hazards.
